BIG THREE TO MEET IN BERLIN

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—Maj. Clement R. Attlee disclosed today that the Big Three meeting will take place in Berlin. Attlee, former deputy prime minister and present leader of the Labor opposition, made the disclosure in a letter to Churchill accepting the Prime Minister's invitation to attend the "prospective conference in Berlin."

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS)—The White House today had "no comment" on reports that Berlin is to be the site of the Big Three conference.

RIBBENTROP IS CAPTURED

British Seize Ribbentrop

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS, Germany, June 15 (AP)—Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop was captured yesterday as he slept unclad in a Hamburg boarding house, bringing to a close the most intensive manhunt in Europe since V-E Day. Von Ribbentrop, understood to be wanted by the governments of at least 10 nations to stand trial for war crimes, was the last top-ranking Nazi known to be alive who had eluded capture. A metal can of poison was found strapped to his body, but he surrendered voluntarily.

The defunct former champagne salesman who became the director of Hitler's arrogant foreign policy, had been hiding in Hamburg since April 30. The man who had imposed his diplomatic will on Europe had not a friend in all of Germany's second largest city who would assist him actively in obtaining a place of refuge.

Von Ribbentrop volunteered the information that he had intended to hide until British feeling about him died down, and then attempt to save his life in a trial. He went to a wine merchant friend, he said—a man who had known him 25 years. The merchant shunned him. Von Ribbentrop, using the name of "Riese," got lodging with an unsuspecting landlady.

The same wine merchant was taken to British intelligence headquarters late yesterday and there pointed out his erstwhile friend. But identification was made even more certain.

By keeping the arrest secret over night, British sleuths who had tailed Von Ribbentrop across much of western Germany arrested his sister. Today in a tearful and hysterical scene she identified the foreign minister.

Ribbentrop first had been traced to an area of northern Germany near the Danish frontier, where he was known to have passed in disguise. The story, as released today, did not reveal what had happened to him between the time he left Berlin and the time he arrived in Hamburg. Nor was anything disclosed of what he knew about Hitler's death or survival.

Ribbentrop was taken under guard in an RAF transport plane from the Lüneburg airfield at 12:30 p. m. to be interrogated by supreme headquarters authorities. Correspondents will not be allowed to interview him.

Found on Ribbentrop were three letters, addressed respectively to

Brunei City Falls To Aussie Troops

MANILA, June 15 (AP)—Jap troops abandoned Brunei city and Australians have taken it without a fight, virtually completing conquest of all major objectives in the northwest Borneo invasion, now five days old.

Enemy forces, still avoiding a showdown fight, streamed south in scattered groups toward the Seria and Miri oil fields, but a few hundred Japs dug in on Labuan island at the northwest entrance to Brunei bay sniped at dismounted cavalry commands. The commands were less than half a mile from Timbalai airfield—last initial objective.

While Royal Engineers hurried work of converting Labuan airfield into a bomber base within 800 miles of Batavia and Singapore, Philippine-based heavy bombers struck at Saigon, Indo-China, and Hongkong.

Fifty Liberators dropped more than 455 drums of jellied gasoline on Hongkong's causeway and small boat basin in the heaviest fire strike Hongkong has yet suffered. Forty others bombed Saigon's railway transport warehouse.

Tokyo said others hit Borneo's oil refinery city of Balikpapan. The Jap controlled Batavia radio also made a left-handed admission that all North Borneo, invaded Sunday by Australia's famed "Rats of Tobruk," is doomed.

Without a supporting fleet or air force, the Japs on North Borneo are offering only token resistance to the Diggers, who have won two airfields and pushed within sight of the only other one—3600-ft. Timbalai on Labuan Island in Brunei Bay.

In the Philippines, the slow but vital drive of the U. S. 37th Infantry Division north of Manila has carried it within nine miles of the flat plain country in the Cagayan valley. Conquest of the valley is the last remaining big job on Luzon.

Okinawa K.O. Now Seen Near

GUAM, June 15 (AP)—Tenth Army forces strove for a quick knockout blow on the supreme command post of the tottering Jap defense on Okinawa today as signs pointed to the folding up of the doomed garrison.

Doughboys of the 96th Division, supported by flame-throwing tanks which seared Jap cave fronts and hill positions, captured Yaeju peak, highest promontory of the Yaeju-Dake last ditch defense escarpment, nicknamed "Big Apple" by the Yanks.

The hill overlooks the plateau which was the enemy's principal defense ground on the southern line. Jap surrenders increased to the hundreds and advancing Americans counted the bodies of scores of others who had committed suicide rather than surrender or retreat again.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Del Valle, commander of the Marine First Division which holds Kunishi ridge on the right flank, pointed up the critical balance of the situation with the comment that the Japanese may be "crushed in two days—or two weeks. It all depends on how lucky we are."

Explosions Kill 600 in Germany

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—Exchange Telegraph said in a Copenhagen dispatch that nearly 600 German navy personnel and spectators had been killed in two explosions at Flensburg, caused when a mine was dropped while explosives were being moved from a warehouse.

Eisenhower Reveals Inside Story of War

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 15 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower told a press conference today the Allied invasion of Europe last June succeeded only because the air, sea and ground arms fought as a single, unified force.

Speaking with great frankness, the supreme commander said many Allied officers actually had doubted an invasion of Europe was possible.

The Germans finally knew the "jig was up" in Europe on the third day of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's December counteroffensive in the Ardennes, when the German commander "realized he couldn't go where he wanted to go," Eisenhower added.

These were the high points in the hour-long conference, during which Eisenhower invited the correspondents to ask about anything which had been bothering them during his three-year stay in Europe:

1—The continued application of the nonfraternization rule in the Reich depends upon the attitude of the German people themselves and upon how soon Nazi elements are wiped out.

2—The German nation as a whole has "no sense of war guilt" and, "while many Germans closed their eyes to atrocities, many others did not."

3—Field Marshal von Rundstedt was the greatest general the Allies faced; the late Field Marshal Rommel was bold but unskilled; German military men did not respect Hitler's strategic planning but in 1943, particularly, Hitler ran his campaign almost alone.

4—The Allied armies were the best equipped in the world, but German Tiger and Panther tanks were superior in head-on slugging matches until the Pershings came into the field, and German rocket projectors, all-purpose 88-mm guns and jet planes were outstanding weapons.

5—The German general staff knew the war was over on the third day of the Ardennes offensive last December, when it failed to take primary objectives, and that Germany lost the ability to continue the fight when Gen. Patton's sweep south through the Saar to meet Gen. Patch's 7th Army wiped out a large body of German troops.

6—Exhaustive study showed the Germans had concentrated the fiercest fighting on the first day because of the wild hope of splitting the four Allied powers, and because of Hitler's determination to continue the battle.

7—The supreme commander's most anxious night was that of Nov. 7, 1942, when the Allies invaded North Africa.

8—One of the most soul-shaking decisions was the order to go ahead in the Normandy invasion on June 6, 1944, in the face of adverse weather reports.

9—There were no direct peace feelers from Germany before Adm. Dönitz's representative came through to Reims.

Speaking of relations with Russia and the other Allies, Eisenhower said it should be borne in mind that without "the urgent danger of war operations" nations were inclined to move more slowly. In peaceful negotiations, problems can be solved only if "all of us can find it within ourselves to be considerate and to be ready to give up something to meet the other fellow's needs," he said.

520 Forts Aim K.O. At Osaka

By LIEF ERICKSON

GUAM, June 15 (AP)—A force of 520 Superforts fought weather—so thick it broke up their formations—halfway to Japan and back today to unload 3000 tons of incendiaries in what they hoped would be a knockout blow to Osaka, Japan's greatest industrial city, and neighboring Amagasaki.

Bombardiers released incendiaries by instruments. Clouds were so thick targets were blotted out and resulting fires, which Tokyo admitted were started at "a number of points" could not be accurately described.

The weather was typical of what can be expected for several weeks. It was so thick fliers "couldn't keep formations of more than two planes," said Capt. Charles B. Miller of Richmond, Va.

"It was so bad the Jap air force must have been grounded," added Lt. Ollie A. Thacker of Pearl Valley, Tex.

The raid, which Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay said might finish off Osaka's warring potentialities, was acknowledged by Tokyo to have lasted an hour.

The first enemy reports also omitted the usual quick claims of B-29s shot down. A later broadcast said many fires were "in the process of being extinguished."

First announcement of the raid was made by Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air Forces chief, at a press conference by way of emphasizing his warning to Nippon that within a little more than two weeks, bomb loads dropped would average 5480 tons a day.

The Marianas-based sky dreadnaughts unloaded jellied gasoline bombs on steel, iron and precision works of southeastern Osaka and, for the first time, hit the industrial city of Amagasaki.

Japan, since American seizure of all but a fraction of Okinawa, 325 miles south, is within range of all types of bombers.

Osaka targets included the Kwozo Precision Works, Wakayama Iron Works, Strong Engineering, Machine Tool and Bearing Works, chemical plants, electrical and textile factories.

Raiders expanded destruction which in three previous raids totaled 14.93 square miles.

Japs Fleeing East China Port

CHUNGKING, June 15 (AP)—The Chinese High Command announced today that Chinese forces which have pursued the Japanese 175 miles from Foochow along the East China coast had attacked the Chekiang province port of Wenchow.

The Chinese said the enemy garrison at Wenchow, 220 miles south of Shanghai on the Wu river, already was beginning to retreat.

Observers here had expected the Japanese to "evacuate" Wenchow, a potential death trap, once the forces which had abandoned Foochow reached there.

June 15 Record Topped at 96.4

Reaching 96.4, to establish a new record for this date, the mercury held at that figure for nearly three hours today before receding to 93 at 3:30 p. m. as Greater Boston got a taste of real warm weather and the weatherman predicted more of the same until Monday.

The temperature equaled the 49-year-old record of 95 for this date at 12:30 and within 20 minutes touched 96 for a new high.

Workers in the State House and

City Hall were released at noon and skeleton crews were left on duty to handle essential duties. Mayor Kerrigan, however, stayed at his desk working in his shirt sleeves.

Unofficial readings in the suburbs were as high as 100 degrees in several towns. Humidity hovered at an uncomfortable 45 per cent through most of the day. In contrast to the sizzling heat in Greater Boston, 48 degrees was reported at Mt. Judith, R. I., and 74 at Chatham.

Walter F. Piper, state department of agriculture expert, called the heat a "good break" for all crops in the ground.

All Boston schools were closed at noon by order of the school committee, Supt. of Schools Arthur L. Gould said.

A few scattered showers fell in northern New England but elsewhere only hot, sunny weather was reported. Some widely scattered showers were predicted for Saturday in interior Massachusetts.

Thousands took advantage of the ideal weather to swarm to near-by beaches and take their first swim of the year.

Should anyone complain about the heat, here's the thought: June 1, 1945 (just 14 days back) was the coldest June day in history, with the mercury at 41 degrees.

Malden Hero Among 1525 to Arrive in NY

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Four troops brought home today 1525 liberated American prisoners and reassignment troops from Europe.

Sgt. John Ybarbo, Malden, Mass., who has three Silver Stars, two Purple Hearts and five major battle stars, was among the reassignment troops aboard the Theodore Bland.

He said he received the first Silver Star because he "broke through German lines," the second because he "burned down an enemy observation post by setting fire to some straw," the third because he "look over a town in France."

OPA—The Black Market—and YOU Per Capita Basis Rationing Flops

By WARREN STEVENS

Bureaucracy opened the meat rationing program with a colossal blunder and the "black market" was the inevitable result. Undoubtedly, government officials meant well in efforts to establish a program assuring equitable distribution of available meat supplies.

Even their initial blunder, bad as it was, could be forgiven.

But, it was inexcusable when they refused to correct the error in the face of mounting and then overwhelming evidence that it had fostered a "black market" which threatened to wreck the entire structure of the rationing program.

The initial error was the arbitrary assumption available meat should be rationed to the entire national population on a per capita basis.

Apparently this meant equality of distribution on a nationwide basis. Also it saved government officials the bother of complicated research.

But it neglected to take into account the obvious fact that Boston and other city areas had been heavy meat buying and consuming centers whose demands far exceeded those of rural areas.

As a result, civilian meat supplies in urban areas were quickly depleted and the demand for protein food turned consumers to poultry and fish.

The demand for unrationed poultry became so great it far exceeded the supply and the "black market" took over.

Leavitt C. Parsons, charter member of the American Poultry Ass'n and publisher of poultry papers, put the blame for the situation squarely on bureaucracy's doorstep almost two months ago.

Parsons was a witness before a congressional committee which visited Boston in its investigation of "black markets."

"The present black market in poultry," Parsons declared, "is due to a shortage caused by maldistribution of rationed meat."

"I feel it is entirely the result of the urban protein shortage that occurred from inadequate distribution of meat for our metropolitan areas."

"I feel that the arbitrary decision to place the rationing of pro-

A Real Cat-astrophe Kitten Stuck 3 Days on High Ledge

By BILL PYLE

No cat in Greater Boston was in a tighter spot today than Thomas Percival Cecil O'Shea, III, who chased a squirrel up the side of a house Wednesday morning and hasn't been able to get down.

T. P. C. O. III, a black-and-white tabby owned by Miss Joan Belden, 18, Mercer cir., Cambridge, has spent two days and two nights fretfully pacing up and down a second-floor ledge of the Belden home, wishing to plazes he knew enough to leave squirrels alone.

The ledge is cat-wide and no wider. It is less than three feet long. Throughout the days and night, T. P. C. O. III, has lifted his voice in horrible caterwaulings to demand of people that he be given a little co-operation in getting down.

But Mercer Circle is a strictly short-ladder neighborhood. The Beldens' ladder is too short. The neighbors' ladders are too short. The police and firemen gave up cat-rescue work long ago.

Thus, Thomas Percival Cecil O'Shea, III is holding the bag. He has not draped his whiskers over a morsel of any kind since the squirrel strategically led him to disaster Wednesday morning. He has not had a drink of milk, or even water, to wet his throat. He is so dry, in fact, that his voice is cracking and the sound is enough to make the neighbors stuff cotton in their ears.

On the morning of his misfortune, T. P. C. O. III had spotted the squirrel making free with the Belden premises and gave it a hot chase. T. P. C. O. III, was gaining when the wily rodent leaped for an ivy vine on the Belden house. Pursued and pursued went the vine in about even time but as the squirrel reached the ledge he turned, spat in T. P. C. O. III's eye and gave a mighty leap into space. No one has seen him since.

Miss Joan Belden was packing that morning for a vacation on the Cape. "I'm not going," she said today, "until poor Thomas Percival Cecil O'Shea, III, is rescued from that ledge."

Egg Dilemma

Just a year ago the War Food Administration was getting rid of millions of eggs it had bought to bolster the market during a period of abundance. Because they spoiled, WFA had to sell them for pigs or as fertilizer. Today the market is bare of eggs and mothers who must have them for growing children are frantic in their search. Where are the eggs? Look at the records of cold storage plants and you will find huge holdings in the names of various companies. Because ceilings on eggs differ from one week to the next, eggs are being kept from the market until ceilings have reached their peak.

Old Saratoga's Epic Battle Told by Navy

By POPE HALEY

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The Navy disclosed today the famous old aircraft carrier Saratoga had sustained tremendous damage in the early stages of the battle for Iwo Jima.

But she has now been fully repaired and is back pitching again.

Seven direct bomb hits struck the carrier. The 315 casualties included 123 killed, missing or dead of wounds, and 192 wounded.

The fleet's oldest surviving carrier, affectionately known to all hands as the "Sara," had twice suffered serious damage from torpedo attacks.

The attack came on Feb. 21, two days after Iwo Jima D-Day, as she was cruising with a fast carrier task group northeast of the island.

The Navy described the action against "Sara" as "one of the most concentrated attacks in which a carrier has survived."

"The Saratoga," said the Puget Sound Navy Yard's hull superintendent, "was the most extensively damaged vessel the Puget Sound yard has received."

The carrier was launching her planes when nine or ten Jap bombers, all on suicide missions, closed in. Four were shot down but four others managed to crash and bomb the ship. A fifth, after it was knocked down alongside, careened off the water and exploded, tearing a large hole in the carrier's hull. A bomb from another plane blew a hole in the ship's side below the waterline, rupturing many fuel oil lines. Water rushed in, and the ship took a six degree list.

"Fires broke out and burning planes and fuel scattered over great areas of the ship," the Navy report said. "The forward part of the flight deck was battered beyond use. One enemy suicider penetrated the side of the ship into the hangar deck where he exploded to cause a great fire. The crane forward of the bridge, the catapults and many guns were battered by the crashing planes and exploding bombs. Wreckage falling into the gun galleries caused further fires there."

In spite of her damage, however, the carrier was able to proceed.

Many heroic acts prevented even greater casualties and damage. In one instance, an officer and two enlisted men were lowered over the ship's side to fight flames, and with the vessel going at 25 knots they managed to bring the fire under control.

However, the Sara's troubles were not over. An hour and a half later, with darkness setting in, more enemy planes appeared and one dropped another bomb on the stricken carrier before crashing. Damage from the second attack, although severe, was brought under control, and the Sara was able to receive her airborne pilots circling the ship with their gas supplies running low.

Wickes Heads Hub Vet Bureau

Announcing plans for reorganization of the Veterans' Service Center for Boston, Mayor Kerrigan named Rep. John C. Wickes of Rosendale st., Dorchester, today as director of the bureau, which will be housed in the Houghton Dutton building.

Up to the present, the Center has been under the Soldiers' Relief Department with no active head.

The mayor pointed out that with large numbers of service men and women being returned to civilian life, it was necessary for the city to have a central agency to assist them in obtaining employment and handling other veteran problems.

Rep. Wickes, a former member of the City Council, served in the Navy for two years before being discharged recently.

Destroyer's Fight for Life Off Okinawa

VALLEJO, Cal. June 15 (AP)—Scarred and battered, with her superstructure wrecked from a direct hit by a Jap Kamikaze plane off Okinawa April 29, the doughty 2100-ton destroyer Hazelwood is berthed at Mare Island Navy repair yard today being refitted.

Ten of her 19 officers, including the skipper, Com. V. P. Duow of Abingdon, Md., and 67 of 299 enlisted men are dead or missing.

The gallant craft had seen action in the Wake, Tarawa, Gilbert, Marshall, Peleliu and Philippine Islands before joining the Third Fleet to carry the war to Japan's doorstep.

The saga of her nearly-mortal battle against three suicide planes was told by Lt. (j.g.) L. E. Legas of Seattle, senior surviving officer.

About 100 miles northeast of Okinawa, Duow's ship left formation to protect a vessel at the edge of the group from three Jap planes. The first of the Jap Kamikazes scored a direct hit on a nearby destroyer and the Hazelwood turned to her aid.

The second plane dived at the Hazelwood, grazed the number four gun and crashed into the sea. Seconds later the third scooped out of the clouds. His right wing struck the after stack, overwing the plane to the superstructure where it exploded. The blast crumpled everything above decks, destroying all fire apparatus and communications.

Legas took charge forward and the task of caring for the wounded, and the ship's control was assumed by Lt. C. M. Locke, Lockeford, Cal.

Locke ordered the ship stopped dead in the water as three other destroyers braved flames and explosions to pull alongside and spray the decks with their hoses. Wounded from the Hazelwood were transferred to the protecting warships. When the oil-fuel blaze was brought under control a destroyer towed the crippled Hazelwood for nearly 12 hours before power was restored.

'Abandon Ship' Order Ignored, Crew Saves Her

By GEORGE McWILLIAMS

ABOARD USS HADLEY, West Pacific, June 8 (Delayed) (INS)—Men of the fighting destroyer USS Hadley told today how they shot down a record of 23 Jap planes in 95 flaming minutes during which the vessel was hit by three suicide planes.

The Hadley was left dead in the water after the action but the valiant ship and her crew refused to quit.

The action was the destroyer's first major engagement since she was commissioned last November. Her captain is Com. B. J. Mulaney, New Bedford, Mass.

With the destroyer Evans which shot down 19 Jap planes in the action, the Hadley took a guard station off Okinawa on May 10. At 7:45 a. m. she shot down a Jap float plane.

Ten minutes later Jap planes were coming in from all directions and continued to attack for an hour and a half. Every gun was fired until it was blistering hot.

A total of 156 enemy aircraft took part in attacks and the Hadley and the Evans bagged 42 of them. American planes accounted for 50 more.

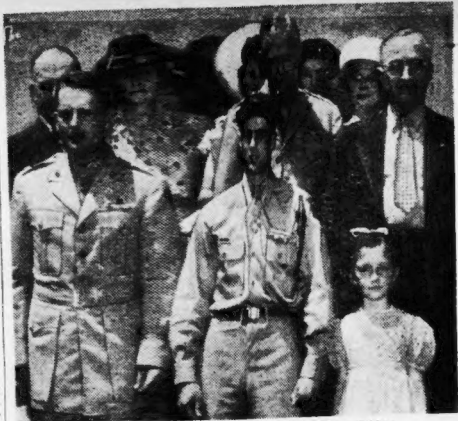

The Evans was hit by several suicide planes and went out of action at 9 a. m. The Hadley continued to fight alone.

It was in the final period of action, lasting not more than four minutes, that the Hadley suffered most of her damage, being hit by one bomb and two Kamikazes.

With fires raging all about and a number of men killed or wounded, the Hadley appeared doomed and the order was given to abandon ship.

Then 50 officers and men under damage control officer Lt. Craig Clemmons, organized for a last ditch battle to save the destroyer.

Disregarding their own safety, they dragged hoses to the heart of the fire and had the flames under control in 15 minutes. Two small craft came to the rescue.

MAJ. EVERETT POPE (LEFT) OF WOLLASTON Receives Medal of Honor From President

Wollaston Marine Gets Highest Honor

For valor in holding a strategic hill on Peleliu island last September in which he and his Marines used rocks, grenade boxes and their fists against the Japs, Maj. Everett

P. Pope of Anthony st., Wollaston, received the Congressional Medal of Honor today from President Truman.

Maj. Pope, a former Bowdoin College athlete, to former Marines and an Army infantryman received their decorations in White House ceremonies during which the nation's Chief Executive declared he would rather have the medal they were receiving than be President.

The 26-year-old major, then a captain, and a dozen Marines withstood repeated Jap suicide attacks to hold the strategic hill on the night of Sept. 19.

The ceremonies took place on a sloping lawn outside the President's office in the presence of members of the families of the four heroes and ranking officials of the services, including Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Ernest J. King.

After fastening the last of the four medals, the President again congratulated the four young men, remarking that he had often said he would rather have the nation's highest decoration than the office he holds.

The President twice stumbled in pronouncing the name of Peleliu island while reading Maj. Pope's citation and that of another Marine officer who was decorated. On the first occasion the major pronounced it for him and the President continued reading.

Pope was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps in November, 1941, and took part in the landing and action at Guadalcanal. He returned to this country last November after three Pacific campaigns and was promoted to major in January. He is at present studying Japanese at Yale.

Members of Maj. Pope's family attending the ceremonies with him were his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Pope.

Mayor Kelly to Run

The field of candidates for mayor of Boston reached 23 today when School Committeeman Joseph C. White of Ruskin st., West Roxbury, applied for nomination papers at City Hall.

White's entry was balanced by the announcement of former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly that he would not be a candidate. Kelly said he would not run because "my candidacy would further divide the Democratic vote, thereby increasing the possibility of a Republican would become mayor of a Democratic city."

Kelly urged the Democratic candidates "get together and agree on a plan to assure Democratic success."

The final time for filing nomination papers, containing at least 300 signatures, is Tuesday at 5 p. m.

In addition to White the candidates include: Mayor Kerrigan, Alonzo B. Cook, West End; Dwight Anderson, South End; John J. Concannon, Dorchester; James S. Tremblay, Jamaica Plain; John R. Buckley, Roxbury; Michael P. Feeney, Hyde Park; Rep. James M. Curley, Joseph Lee, West End; Gov. Councillor John J. Sawtelle, Dorchester; Samuel R. Rousmaniere Estate 6 Million

Mrs. Sophie K. Rousmaniere, Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, widow of Dean Edmund S. Rousmaniere of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, left a fortune of more than $6,000,000 when she died Dec. 12, 1944. It was disclosed today when an inventory was filed in probate court.

Securities valued at $5,819,529 constituted the bulk of the estate. The remainder included bank accounts of $161,752, real estate worth $72,000 and a mortgage note of $5100.

The inventory was filed by Mary S. Rousmaniere, a niece and executrix. Her aunt left in excess of $1,000,000 to charity.

Discharged WAC PFC Dons Civilian Clothes

First Boston WAC Released on Points

The first Greater Boston WAC to receive an Army discharge under the point system was home today—her uniform discarded for a bright and cooling dress of floral print.

She's Miss Irene O'Neill, 23, Tuttle st., Dorchester, a PFC who donned civilian attire for the first time in more than two years.

"Yes, I certainly am glad to be out," she told reporters. "It all was a wonderful experience but after tramping half way around the world it's nice to be back home."

Why did she join the WACs. Well, she just was lonely, she confided today.

"You see, my brother, Ralph, 30, had enlisted in the Coast Guard, and my other brother, Stephen, 20, was in the Navy," she continued.

"I wanted to do something to help. After six months of training, I went to Africa and later served in Italy and other sections of the Mediterranean theater. I'll never forget my travel experiences. They all were thrilling, even though a bit rough at times. But it's nice to be back home again just the same."

Highlights of PFC O'Neill's overseas experience, she said, were an audience with Pope Pius XII, during which she had rosary beads blessed by His Holiness for her sister, a nun in Chicago; winning a Battle Star during the Rome-Arno campaign in which she was subjected to air raids.

"If only I were a man," she said. "I'd be eligible for membership in the VFW and even the 40 and 8."

W. A. Curley, Jr., Editor's Son, Dies

CHICAGO, June 15 (INS)—William A. Curley, Jr., 47, former Chicago, California and Milwaukee newspaper man and son of William A. Curley, editor-in-chief of the N. Y. Journal-American, died at the Veterans' Administration Hospital at Hines, Ill., yesterday.

U. S. Fuel Oil For Argentina

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS)—Acting Secretary of State Grew officially revealed today that an agreement has been negotiated between the United States and Argentina to supply that country with large quantities of fuel oil. Grew defended the deal on the ground that Argentina will give in exchange a comparable amount of badly needed vegetable oils for use in the United States and liberated Europe.

Reports have indicated the agreement calls for sending 500,000 tons of fuel oil to Argentina. Grew did not specify this figure, but pointed out that the shortage of fuel oil in that country has resulted in burning vegetable oils for fuel.

Gen. Ike Backs Draft in Peace

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower advised a House committee today "fairness to the country and to the individual's chances of survival in war" demand universal military training in peacetime.

The views of the supreme Allied commander in Europe were set forth in a letter to Chairman Woodrum (D) of Virginia, of the postwar military committee.

The letter was made public as War Secretary Stimson testified supporting the peacetime draft.

"In spite of all technological advances," Eisenhower wrote, "numbers (great strength in all arms, land, sea and air) are vitally important in war and America's approved military system must aim at the rapid development, after the beginning of any serious war, of the country's maximum potentialities in leadership, manpower, equipment, technique and industrial capacity."

In time of peace, he said, individuals subject to war service should have received "a thorough grounding in technique, discipline and understanding of the citizen's obligations in time of emergency."

In a serious war, he continued, "the quicker the maximum potential can be converted into tactical power the surer the victory and the less the cost."

"The contrasting character of the performance of only partially trained troops on early battle fields of Tunisia and that of thoroughly trained ones on their first entry into the battlefields of Italy and France," Eisenhower said, "affords ample proof of the value of effective training prior to entry into battle."

Sec'y. Stimson urged enactment of universal military training legislation "now" instead of after the war.

Stimson explained: "The existing military institution, with its vast equipment and facilities, now is a going concern. To disband and then later re-establish it for universal training "would involve our country in a cost comparable with that incurred in preparing for this war."

"I tell you that we owe it to the next generation, and those who will follow them, that we shall this time make decision while the lesson of experience is fresh upon us."

Stimson said the United States should retain its capacity to discharge its obligations under the world peace organizations now being formed.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling of Philadelphia, editor of the Christian Herald, called for enactment of compulsory peacetime military training.

Beverly Gives Wild Welcome To Gen. Patton

In a tribute that matched the many others for enthusiasm, residents of Beverly today gave raring welcome to Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., colorful commander of the U. S. Third Army on his arrival from Washington en route to his Hamilton estate.

Virtually every resident of the tiny city turned out to pay tribute to the doughty general and his wife, storming the airport where he landed in an Army Boeing and then lining Cabot and Rantoul sts. for a glimpse as the famous couple passed.

First to greet the general and his wife was 17-year-old Erma McLean, daughter of Daniel E. McLean, Beverly's mayor. She presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Patton, and the round of welcomes was on.

Others to extend greetings were the mayor, State Reps. Russell Brown and Cornelius Murray, Alderman Joseph Donovan and two close personal friends of the Patton family, Frederick Ayer and Dr. Peer P. Johnson of Beverly Hospital.

Schools were closed and stores and industrial establishments closed down long enough so employees could turn out for the welcome.

Following the airport ceremonies, Gen. and Mrs. Patton were driven through the city by Alderman Donovan, cheered lustily all the way. The couple soon were at their Hamilton estate, where the general will stay for two weeks before returning to Europe.

Reporters besieged the general for an interview after his arrival at his estate, "Green Meadows," but without success.

Asked if he expected to get a good rest on his vacation, the general had a one word answer.

It was "None." Thus the interview ended.

Margolian Chooses Flying as Career

Fighting men who avidly count their points and pray for a return to civilian life should meet Capt. Leo B. Margolian, Army Air Force flier, of Washington st., Brookline, who has run the gamut of war experiences—suffering more than most.

Yet today the young combat pilot wants only to return to active duty and then continue his career as a flying officer after Japan finally is crushed into the ground.

Sure it was nice to be home and see his little son, Larry Bruce, two years and seven months old, a son he saw for the first time.

But a 60-day furlough can't go too quickly. He's looking forward to the day when he is reassigned to duty at Atlantic City and can begin where he left off when he was shot down in Libya, Dec. 10, 1942, after winning initial honors against Germany's famed Luftwaffe in the early, critical days of the war.

Battles in the skies, trying days in prison camps in Italy and Germany and two and a half years as a prisoner of war has not dulled his enthusiasm for the American soldier. The American is bravest and most ingenious fighting man in the world.

"Airmen don't talk about being shot down except, perhaps on the first anniversary," Margolian said after a reunion with his wife, Lillian, and while getting acquainted with his son.

"Just let it go with the fact that I was shot down in flames after getting a Messerschmidt 109."

"I crash-landed and got out with minor injuries, although the Germans motored to my burning plane and rounded me up in the desert a half hour later. They turned me over to the Italians and they sent me to Italy by submarine. That was a trip to really sweat out."

"We cruised four days and nights dodging British and American naval forces before we made it. Then, they packed 30 of us officers in a box car and we had to sweat out American air attacks all the way up the Italian coast."

"Four of us squeezed through a ventilator in the roof and leaped from the moving train, but we never were able to hook up again

WIFE, SON LARRY, 2, GREET CAPT. LEO MARGOLIAN
Brookline Air Ace Returns From Nazi Prison

as we planned because of darkness. I made the hills and got by all right with Italian patriots because they only waited for the day that the Americans marched in and passed out shoes, chocolates and cigars. They all expected cash rewards as well.

"Six weeks later I was captured by a German patrol when only 15 miles from our own lines. This time they made sure and sent me off to a prison camp at Barth, Germany, not far from the Baltic."

"On last May 1 the Germans fled the Barth camp and its 9000 prisoners. The Russians arrived next day and the road home for Margolian took shape."

"The Russian soldier is a great guy. He'll give you the shirt off his back and anything else you ask for."

"We told them we wanted meat more than anything, so back they soon came driving 100 head of cattle. They set up a slaughter house and we ate beef. A Russian captain asked me what else I wanted and I told him a German Mauser like he carried. He sent out for one and an orderly was back with a beauty."

"Some of our prison guards were local boys and they simply shifted into civilian clothes and thought they could get away with it. However, we teamed up with the Russians and dug out a lot of them. They got speedy justice, even if we didn't have any trials."

"There is nothing to compare with the devastation wrought by the American Air Force," he added.

"City after city is in ruins and, although I am not one to foretell when the Japs will be licked, I know that country is going to get a searing from the air that will be remembered for generations."

The only bright moment in a prison camp is when food packages arrive from home or are distributed through the Red Cross, the young pilot declared. Many of the former were sent regularly by his father, Charles Mungie, circulation manager of the Boston Record-American.

"We cooked in pans made from tin cans and we baked about everything on special occasions," he continued. "We had real cakes when we got our Red Cross boxes. All we had to do was to grate up the ration biscuits and crackers into flour. We used margarine for shortening and powdered milk for whip cream frosting. These treats were few."

So if any youngster is doubtful over a career he can take Capt. Margolian's word for it that the U. S. Army Air Force offers the very best in everything. He never wants to look further.

$10,000 Stolen From N. End War Worker

Three Unity st., North End, war workers reported to police today that $10,000 in cash and war bonds were stolen from their home by burglars who ransacked their apartment, overturning furniture, ripping mattresses and tearing pictures from walls.

The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Viviani Toscano, and Dominic Toscano, reported they returned home from work to find that someone had broken a glass panel in the door of their second-floor home.

The burglars had made a shambles of the place, apparently before they discovered the hiding place—a tin box in a bureau—where most of the bills and war bonds were kept. Half of the loot was in war bonds, the other in money, mostly bills of large denominations.

Police quoted the Toscanos as saying they were too busy working to take the money and bonds to the bank. Several jars filled with coins, including several gold coins, were taken from shelves in the kitchen.

Detectives found numerous fingerprints in the Toscano apartment as the only clues to the break.

Gandhi Steps Down as Leader

BOMBAY, June 15 (AP)—Gandhi said today the freeing of eight imprisoned members of the Congress Working Committee was the occasion for him to step aside as leader and let them "take up the thread" of independence plans.

Field Marshal Wavell, the viceroy, announced the liberations last night. An Indian-British conference is to be held June 25 at Simla over Britain's new offer of two additional executive council posts to Indians as a step "towards Indian self-government."

Gandhi said he telegraphed Wavell to tell the viceroy he was only an advisor and had no standing as a recognized representative of the congress party.

Cantor's Cash Aids Hub Service Fund

The fund to build a service center for servicemen's wives and mothers was off to a flying start today with a generous, $500 personal contribution from Eddie Cantor, the ace entertainer, who will headline the fund's big Bataan Show at Boston Garden Sunday evening, June 24.

Cantor is bringing his entire radio troupe here for the show and is delaying his return to Hollywood so he can serve as master of ceremonies.

The Garden performance is scheduled on the eve of the world premiere of RKO's "Back to Bataan" at Boston's Keith Memorial Theater. The entertainment program to be provided by stars of the stage, screen and radio will serve as a salute to that epic film of heroic Filipino guerrillas. Proceeds of the Garden show will go toward establishment of the civic center.

"This will be the anniversary procession which will give each other," Cantor said, smiling at the wife with whom he celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary June 9. Blowing the check dry, he grinned at her and added, "You owe me half."

In making his gift the noted comedian said the "needs of servicemen's wives are one of the greatest problems of the nation today and one which all of us will be eternally dishonored if we neglect."

Cantor, originator of the "Purple Heart Circuit" of entertainment playing military hospitals, will be honored guest and the only civilian today in New York's first Purple Heart parade in history, later being present on the reviewing stand among military guests. And at the Garden show here 500 Purple Heart wearers will be guests, invited at Cantor's behest.

Tickets are now on sale at the Garden from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at popular prices, $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60, but get yours early to be assured of best seats.

On the bill so far, in addition to Cantor, are his radio troupe, including Leonard Sues, noted trumpeter; Nora Martin and Bea Walker, song stylists, and vocalist Fred Martel; the one and only Benny Goodman, "King of Swing," and the entire company he headlines at the RKO-Boston; Romo Vincent, Broadway's popular comedian and star of the new hit show, "Marinka"; Jean Merrill, Ted Cole and the Gallagher Sisters, singing notables from the Yankee Network; lavish production numbers of the Club Mayfair and Latin Quarter, and a large delegation of Hollywood stars who are making the trip east.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines commissioner to the U. S. and a member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff, will be a guest with Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan, as well as officers and men from the N. W. England area who were freed from the Jap episode at Cabanatuan, a thrilling episode faithfully portrayed in the film "Back to Bataan" and with three of the rescued appearing in the picture as actors.

Among the freed prisoners attending the Garden show are Maj. John J. Dugan, S. J., now post chaplain at Cushing General Hospital, Framingham; Maj. Vaughan A. Shaw of Ft. Devens, Capt. John W. Temple of Pittsfield and Capt. Francis M. Lunnie of Concord, Vt.

Tree Service

HOLDREGE, Neb., June 15 (AP) The steaming cup of coffee served Stewart Carlson at a family picnic had been brewed over an open fire in the tradition of the Swedish people of this area. But the egg that traditionally went into the coffee was missing.

As Carlson contemplated the situation an egg plopped into his cup. Carlson looked up and spied a bird sitting in a tree branch directly overhead.

Bay Staters Blast Army Point System

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS)—Twenty-one Massachusetts soldiers of Gen. Patton's Third Army have protested to Rep. Lane (D.) of Massachusetts against the Army's point system, it was disclosed today.

In a letter, the soldiers, all members of the 26th (Yankee) Division now in Czechoslovakia, termed the point system "an awful let-down with a slap in the face and a broken heart."

The letter was signed by PFC John C. Klangos, of Lynn, Mass., and 21 other Third Army men from Lynn, Lawrence, Salem, Bridgewater, Lowell, Peabody, South Boston, Beverly, Boston, Newtonville and East Lynn, Mass., and Cumberland, Md.

The men asserted that "men in the States . . . and all men overseas" should be discharged according to the length of service.

"We all heartily disagree with it (the point system)" declared Klangos. "We think it is unfair to the men with longer lengths of service here. In other words, first in the Army and last to get out is just about the size of it."

"They even said that the point system was approved and agreed by the individual soldiers. That, my dear friend, is a lie, for we did not see, hear or vote on anything until it came out on the radio, and that it is unfair to us and many, many others who have risked their lives in this great campaign."

Congress May Quiz Roosevelt, Hartford

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Rep. Knutson (R.) of Minnesota said today he will propose that Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt and John Hartford be summoned before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Knutson said he wants a "complete examination" of personnel files of the Hartford resident of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. and the late President's son-in-law. He said the files should be made available to the public and that the House should not approve a $25,000 "red dirt" item listed in the files.

Knutson, Republican member of the committee, Knutson's assertion to a reporter came after Chairman Loughton (D) of North Carolina announced plans to call the group, probably Tuesday, to discuss whether to investigate the matter.

Knutson disclosed in a House speech yesterday that Hartford's $100,000 a year tax, based on their salary of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and that the House should not approve a $25,000 "red dirt" item listed in the files.

Knutson said he had received a letter from the Hartford family, asking that the House should not approve a $25,000 "red dirt" item listed in the files.

30,000 Canadian Army in Jap War

OTTAWA, June 15 (AP)—The troops Canada will send to fight Japan are the same as those sent to fight Germany, said a Canadian official today. The United States also would be effectively alerted, according to the official, who said the troops are being sent to the Pacific.

The Prime Minister wanted his phrase as if to answer a question which might be asked of the magnitude of the Canadian effort. He said he had announced that Canada's armed forces in the Pacific, all of whom are to be volunteers, would be composed of 20,000 army troops, 10,000 naval personnel and 10,000 air force personnel.

The army would be made up of 10,000 troops and 10,000 naval personnel. The navy would be made up of 10,000 troops and 10,000 naval personnel.

Jews Charge Liberation Camp Evils

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, June 15—Living conditions in German concentration camps, despite liberation, are as deplorable as they were under the Nazis, and perhaps worse.

Such is the substance of first-hand reports being received daily by the World Jewish Congress from overseas representatives. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the Congress, revealed today.

Dr. Wise cited a quotation from a report which he considers reliable calling the condition of the inmates "intolerable." The report states:

"These people (in the camp) were liberated by the British April 15, but still live under the most unsanitary conditions imaginable. There is a terrific scarcity of food, medical supplies, and no personnel.

"Even when they do get their rations, there is no one available to feed the very sick who do not have the strength to walk to the kitchen. You can imagine how frightful the situation is that some of them have stated that conditions are worse than they were under the Germans."

"As a result, there has been a tremendous psychological letdown and a feeling of hopelessness about the future after the sudden joy of having been freed. Many have died."

Dr. Wise also cited "frantic" appeals from within the concentration camps for help in overcoming the "despairing scarcity" of physicians, nurses and social workers.

17-Gun Salute for Ike In N. Y. Welcome Tuesday

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—A 17-gun salute will welcome Gen. Eisenhower to New York city Tuesday.

It will boom out around 10 a. m. when the supreme Allied commander is expected to arrive at LaGuardia Field from Washington in the C-54 transport plane that was especially fitted for President Roosevelt.

Plans are in full swing to conduct Eisenhower through the streets of New York for a popular welcome as tumultuous as the city ever has given a returning hero.

Among the guests at a noon reception in front of City Hall will be the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Gov. and Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey are to attend a dinner in the general's honor Tuesday night.

Small Nations Plan Charter Revision

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15 (AP)—Several small nations resentful of big power leadership may rally enough United Nations Conference votes today to force revision of the projected world security charter in 5 to 10 years.

A wide coalition could form to force a revision from the Big Five, which insist on the present charter. The Big Five, however, insist on the present charter. The Big Five, however, insist on the present charter. The Big Five, however, insist on the present charter.

If they can't have these things, they say, they want the right to pull out a right which could be used as a club against the big powers.

The Big Five admit that possibly the charter may have to be amended some day, but they insist that no time limit should be fixed. At least they contend might compel calling a conference on charter revision just when the league is making its strongest bid.

The conference leadership is planning for a settlement of these and related issues this week. A full schedule of both open commission meetings and closed committee sessions has been set up for the next few days.

Guess He's 'Big Ike' by This Time

ABILENE, Kans., June 15 (AP) Because she disliked nicknames, Mrs. Ida Eisenhower, mother of the general of the armies, simply reversed his baptismal record from "David Dwight" to "Dwight David" Eisenhower, and then had to listen to his friends call him Ike.

Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Kansas State College and brother of the five-star general, said the mass-fie family Bible recorded Ike's name as "David Dwight Eisenhower."

"But it didn't take mother long to realize that her baby son could, and inevitably would, have his first name shortened to "Dave," said brother Milton.

So she began calling the general-to-be by his second name—Dwight.

That lasted only until neighborhood boys and grownups here started calling him "Little Ike" to distinguish him from an older brother, Edgar, who was known as "Big Ike."

Reddick, Grove Fire Hero, Dying

Walter Reddick, 55, well known Boston bartender who played the role of hero in the Coconut Grove disaster, by aiding a dozen or more persons to escape from the burning structure, is in critical condition at City Hospital following his collapse in the Park st. subway station early today.

Found lying on the platform in a coma, he was rushed to the hospital, where his condition was reported as "very poor."

Hearing that a call for blood donors had been sent out, police officers of the Back Bay and Warren ave. station, who remembered how Reddick had risked his life to save others in the nightclub holocaust, are standing by ready to donate their blood.

Mrs. Malcolm McLean of Ten Hills rd., Somerville, at whose home he lived, said he had been in failing health since he was hospitalized for treatment of burns and smoke inhalation suffered at the Grove fire. He was on his way home from work at a Back Bay hotel when he collapsed.

Stepping Out?

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP) — The War Production Board gave its consent today for a return to fancier types of feminine footwear.

More plentiful supplies of two-tone spectators' reptile shoes and huaraches may be expected to result from the relaxation, WPB said. In addition, the agency lifted its ban on manufacture of shoes with fancy stitching, lacing, overlays, ghillie ties and other decorative styles.

New Clue to Hitler's Fate Points to Probable Escape

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERCHTESGADEN, June 15 (INS)—A Nazi who escaped from Berlin on April 26 raised the possibility today Hitler did not die in the German capital but may have escaped.

New light was thrown on the puzzling mystery of Hitler and his whereabouts—dead or alive—when it was learned Hitler changed his last stand bunker position. He moved from beneath the Reich Chancellery to underground in the edge of the city district of Kurfürstendamm. He was revealed by a German aide to Martin Bormann, one of Hitler's closest associates and himself as yet uncaptured.

The aide claimed, and other reports would seem to bear him out, that on or about April 23 Hitler ordered Field Marshal Keitel and SS Chief Kaltenbrunner to establish headquarters in northwest Germany to carry on the fight.

It was learned August Wollenhaupt, Hitler's father since 1943, was called to the Wilhelmstrasse to give him a haircut on the night of April 20.

Wollenhaupt said Hitler didn't fidget and seemed less concerned than usual about the trimming of his forelock. He also got his usual mustache trim.

He told Wollenhaupt: "All will come out okay."

Wollenhaupt was then granted permission to leave Berlin with groups of Nazis flying to Berchtesgaden. According to the barber, Hitler's baggage was packed "or removal, as he heard, to the Zoo.

The fact that Bormann's aide got out of Berlin that late indicated others could have got away even later. Bormann, himself, could have used this avenue of escape.

4 Senators Back From War Tour

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)

Chairman Wheeler (D) of Montana, returned from Europe today with three other members of a special Senate committee which investigated communications problems in Europe and North Africa.

Wheeler said "we've got to do something about communications over there" but declined to give the committee's views until the members report to President Truman.

"We should have American communications every place and at the peace table we should see that American interests are protected," he said.

As an example he said in Saudi Arabia all American communications except War Department memoranda must clear through the British.

MRS. ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT

THE COLUMN which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt writes for the Boston Evening American and other newspapers has disclosed a better understanding, if not a changed viewpoint, on the part of the author regarding Communist enterprise and propaganda in the United States.

"Certain actions of American Communists in this country," Mrs. Roosevelt asserted, "have added fuel to the general FEAR of Communism as an international force."

Referring to the recent "switch" in the Communist party line, from purported co-operation with the American Government to open support of international Communism as directed from Russia, Mrs. Roosevelt acknowledged with the utmost candor that the ominous prospect thus raised is one of foreign ENCROACHMENT upon our strictly and exclusively American affairs.

"It frightens us to see any group in our midst proposing to PROPAGANDIZE instead of cooperating where possible and letting people think and act for themselves," she said.

"American Communists who encourage a policy of world revolution have done the peace of the world harm . . .

"As we understand it, they are out to FORCE COMMUNISM ON OUR DEMOCRACY."

"That we will not TOLERATE."

MR. ROOSEVELT is absolutely RIGHT, although she has come somewhat belatedly to her present conclusion—perhaps a fact which will make it all the more devastating and demoralizing to those denounced. Her only remaining error is in her apparent assumption that the present tactics and actions of the American Communists are NEW.

Her disillusionment is great because of the deceptions under which she has labored.

There is, in fact, nothing "new" about the Communist propaganda line in the United States, because it has ALWAYS been the consistent and persistent Communist purpose in the United States to subvert and destroy the American democratic form of government and way of life.

Attorney-General Biddle has made this abundantly clear in his report to Congress charging that Russia has deliberately and continuously CIRCUMVENTED the Foreign Agents' Registration Law in the distribution of its propaganda in the United States.

Mr. Biddle stated that, with the conspicuous EXCEPTION of Soviet Russia, there has been a trend under this law toward "assumption of responsibility on the part of foreign governments for the materials and ideas they have chosen to present to the American public."

"An exception to this trend," he said, "is the case of the Soviet Union, which does not maintain an official information agency but conducts parallel activities BY OTHER MEANS in large part not subject to the act."

THE COMMUNIST LINE in the United States has never been anything ELSE than a propaganda line.

Any "co-operation" by Communists with the American war effort has been purely incidental to the fact that Russian interest ran parallel to American interest in the European War.

Now that the European War is over, the American Communists appear to be OUT of the war—because there is reason to suspect they were never in it for America but solely FOR RUSSIA.

Mrs. Roosevelt speaks truthfully.

And she is to be commended for saying that "the sooner we clear up authoritatively this whole situation of the Communist Party outside of the Soviet Union the better chance we will have for peace in the future."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—Have you a reader in Sleepy Eye, Minn., or Sublette, Wis.?
A—Not yet. But don't forget I have a reader in Pysht, Wash.
Q—Unless you write something in favor of brown-eyed Aquarius girls, I will not read your column any more. How about it?
A—Ah, trying to intimidate me. Just a brown-eyed bully. Don't you know the stargazers say you can't handle a Leo man that way? You've got to reason with him same as you would a mule.

NEW PEN PAL: "I read your column quite regularly," writes a Baltimorean, "I have to, I am a linotype operator on the Baltimore News-Post and set your stuff up." (Thanks, anyway, Pal. Getting so far under a linotype's skin as to inspire him to write a letter is what I consider quite a step in advance. How is the sea food at Miller's holding up? Are the fish biting all night in Chesapeake Bay? Had my terrapin stew lately? And, by the way, have you heard of any more good that might be going at Pimlico soon? I could use a winner. Something at about 8-to-1 will be satisfactory.)

HORSES AND WOMEN: Gemini (May 21-June 20) men are inclined to be flirtatious and follow the "love 'em and leave 'em" policy. Seventy per cent of women who fall in love with the Gemini gentlemen end up carrying the torch. So says a New Yorker who states she speaks from careful observation and "bitter personal experience."

SAYS SHE: "How ridiculous for women to ask for a list of 87 ways to get a husband," writes a Milwaukee subscriber. "The trouble with most single girls is that they are too eager. They scare the men off by revealing too soon that they, the girls, have marriage on their minds. The thing for a girl to do at first is to casually remark that she loves her liberty and doesn't intend to marry for a long time. Then, after she has inspired a man to determine he will make the effort to change her mind."

SAD STORY: By patronizing different restaurants in Manhattan it is possible for a man to get his teeth into a steak about three times weekly. That is, legally. Of course, patrons of the "meat-eaters" that specialize in black market products can get steak every night. New York home managers are highly indignant about this situation. I don't blame them. A loving wife shops vainly for meat. Footsore and weary she sadly returns home to prepare a dinner from what she has been able to purchase. Then when she places the meal on the table her husband looks at it scornfully and exclaims bitterly: "What, fish again?" The next day injury is added to insult when a more opulent neighbor says to the harassed housewife: "My husband and I went out to dinner at a restaurant last night and had the most wonderful steak!"

PASSING BY: Heine Groh, erstwhile third sacker for McGraw's Giants. You can't call yourself a young old-timer if you don't remember Heine's bottle-shaped bats and his peculiar stance at the plate. He stood far back as if preparing to sneak up on the ball. Was a great fellow to get on base one way or another. Nearly always a lead-off man in the batting order . . . Evelyn Nesbit, erstwhile actress. Though her fame is chiefly based on an unfortunate incident in her private life, she was not without talent. She introduced several popular songs. Among them was "Sprinkle Me With Kisses if You Want My Love to Grow."

This was by a distinguished team of song writers; Earl Carroll wrote the words and Ernest Ball, the music.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, June 15—I have been coming to Washington to do pieces for the paper ever since President Harding's peace conference when Doc Sawyer, the President's personal physician, a brigadier general by appointment, tormented the sentries who saluted him with the elaborate flourish then accorded generals by giving them back a neighborly wave of the hand and chirping "how-de-do."

In those days people said that it was sheer inflation to make Doc Sawyer a brigadier and so I guess it was, for those days. But now a big-general is hardly a corporal, as you might say, and a major-general the equivalent of a top-kick and we see brigadiers inching along in the chow line at breakfast time in the coffee room and taking their turns among the standees waiting for the bus at rush-hour.

In those days, two dollars would buy you a fore-and-aft meal, meaning one of those program dinners that began with crab-flake or shrimp and went on through the steak and potatoes and plenty of butter and rolls, salad, ice-cream and coffee.

Now you are lucky and must be on hand reasonably early to get a sheet of dilapidated fish doused with paper hanger's paste and the bread is made of chalk and water and the butter you get wouldn't grease the gears of your watch.

I USED to come here when my friend, the manager of one of the biggest hotels would send a pot of flowers up to the suite with his card on it and a basket of grapes as big as golf-balls and oranges, bananas and great red apples suitable for a gift from a teacher's pet, and the tab for the two rooms was only eight dollars a day and a quarter was a tip and not an imposition.

Now you have to be elected to get a room over the kitchen and your term is limited to five days, once a month.

I have been here in all circumstances, including three of Mr. Roosevelt's inaugurations and two or three World Series displays at Clark Griffith's ball park.

I think the demonstration which preceded the first World Series was the most enthusiastic, in a distinctly artificial way, of all such public commotions.

It was the first time Washington had ever worn a pennant in the American League and the crowds went whooping through the streets until all hours of the morning, riding on the snouts of automobiles, hanging one another over the head with balloons and throwing confetti and sneeze-powder until there was nobody left awake to play with.

THE FIRST Roosevelt inauguration was the most ominous or solemn or anyway forbidding hour that I recall living through in Washington or anywhere else.

I tell you that the night before, this town was doing jumps, and Roosevelt certainly did pitch to our psychology the next day when he got up on that scaffold at the Capitol and, in that awful weather, reassured us that all we had to fear was fear itself.

It was a wonderful speech, just as a speech, and there was faith and hope, as well as confidence and a strange wonder, in the hearts of us as the parade went along Pennsylvania ave., to the White House in the rain.

People were scared the night before. Scared of what I can't say; but nobody who was here can tell me he wasn't frightened for the fear that Roosevelt spoke of next day pervaded the crowds in the hotels and by train-time when the get-away began, people were around borrowing fives-and-tens who ordinarily could drop a check on the cashier's ledge at any good hotel in town and walk away with any amount.

The hotels wouldn't cash a check. They would hang up your bill, of course, but they locked up their cash money against the bank holiday, not knowing when it would end, if ever.

NOW, in Washington there is another mood. It is the initiation, the probation, you could say, of a new President who speaks not the affected and formulated political and ideological language of the common man but the tongue of the American people and seems to play his politics according to straight American rules. No deuces wild. No seven-toed Pete. No novelties, but just straight Americanese, politics entirely clear, of course, nor yet European or low-down trickery.

I hear people saying they feel as though they had got their citizenship back.

Simple Dress Smartness

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE SECRET of Venus was not a secret at all... for Venus, just like her sisters of today... had trouble in keeping a beauty preparation to herself. She preferred her nectar straight and her perfumes undiluted... a fact that not only every Goddess in Olympus knew... but every woman since. Venus was not only divinely beautiful... but was also very practical. To win Adonis without fear of ever losing him... she used the most precious and the most fragrant of oils pure.

It is a curious fact that the goddesses who have made their names famous by their beauty have also made their names famous by their perfume. Venus should be named after her name. She is a goddess of pure beauty and without the addition of any solvent whatever. Such a perfume, of course, could not be applied directly to a woman's dress without staining it. And that's why Venus was so practical that it be used only in the seclusion of my bath. It is a time when she is most beautiful. Venus is looked amazingly... or not so amazingly... alike.

At once it was in great demand among the fastidious Parisians. Then, probably because the best of intentions to sometimes unwarranted and the greatest successes carry with them their own problems, this perfume of inspired by a Goddess found its way into the prosaic plumbing of the family tub... and an idea which was born at the source of Adonis' love for Venus... became identified by the plebeian name of bath oil. For many years and in many languages... these noted perfumers had to tell their customers how many drops went into the perfume bottle and give other directions for its use. It is not usually found in the perfumers' notebook.

A REAL LUXURY

But now that this "bath oil" has become a product of every-day life, it is no longer a luxury. It is a luxury which every woman... at one time or another... feels she is entitled to. Directly applied to the skin... it has the most remarkable clinging quality... and we have ever experienced in a perfume.

For a Venus identification of personality... for an exquisite perfume rarely found in ordinary perfumes... Venus' secret of glowing-lily-charm may be found in the hallowed perfume of extravagance of this age-old formula.

For the name of this exquisite essence, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Thursday—I concluded my discussion of compulsory military service yesterday by saying that our search must be for that which will give us the greatest security and, at the same time, the greatest hope for future peace among nations.

Those who feel that security for this country cannot lie only in the genuine desire of our people for peace, but must also find us willing at all times to keep ourselves fully prepared for war, have advanced the theory that we must have a great navy, a great air force and a citizen's army. That is, we must have compulsory military training for one year, they say, if we desire only a small standing army which will be the nucleus for expansion when necessary.

They claim that this program will cost us less than a large standing army, which we would have to maintain if we did not give a year of military training to every male citizen in the country.

THEY HAVE one argument which, in the light of history, must give us pause. They say that in both of the last wars we were shirked by the fact that our allies went to war first, thus giving us time to prepare ourselves and to become the arsenal of production for the materials of war. They add that we cannot always expect this good fortune; that in the next war the aggressor nation or nations will profit by the lessons of the past wars. They will know that we are the first nation to be conquered. They will attack us first.

It is common knowledge now that the Nazis in underground factories were preparing weapons which had the European war lasted longer—could have bombed our cities very precisely from the homeland of Germany.

We must bear all of these things in mind when we discuss how we are going to live in the next few years. It may be that this kind of military preparation is essential until we get a peace organization functioning; until we gain the confidence of many peoples throughout the world, and so improve the living conditions of the average human being that the incentives to war are more remote than they have ever been before.

Plan Garden for Canning

By MARTHA LEE

TOO MUCH CANNOT BE SAID about this year's Victory Garden. Paul C. Stark, who was recently appointed by President Truman as director of the home food supply for the War Food Administration, urges everyone who is not only to plant a garden but to can as much of the produce as possible.

If you've already planted yours and are discouraged over its condition, due to unfavorable weather, it is heartening to know that it is not too late to replant everything—except peas, onions, and potatoes. You can plant as late as June 20 and be reasonably sure of a good crop.

Since there is a shortage of fruit all over the country, because of late frosts and other freak weather conditions, we'll be depending on tomatoes in the months ahead to make up the vitamin deficiency which will be caused by the lack of fruit.

Whatever you do, count your vegetables as best you can before the garden is planted. That is, have some idea how much the garden will yield and how much can be used for canning. This prevents waste, and applies to all your crops.

PLAN FOR MORE VITAMINS

We have also been urged to grow more cabbage, turnips and broccoli as well as tomatoes to furnish meals with more vitamin C.

Home gardens should grow more green and yellow vegetables, too, to furnish diets with vitamin A. Suggestions are: Kale, spinach, turnip or rutabaga tops, carrots, winter squash, lent beans, green beans and green peas.

Available in this state also are excellent facilities for obtaining information on gardening and canning. The Massachusetts State College has many extension bulletins that may be had by writing to them at Amherst, Mass.

Home-makers doing home canning with wartime jar caps are cautioned to follow explicit instructions of the cap makers. We know that the jars this year are definitely superior to those manufactured in the last two years. However, homemakers are advised to continue last year's recommended practice of boiling jars 30 minutes in one quart of water containing 1 tablespoon of soda for each dozen jars, and then rinsing in boiling water.

TOMATOES, HOT PACK METHOD

Put tomatoes into trays or shallow layers of wire baskets and dip in boiling water for about a minute, according to ripeness. Then plunge quickly into cold water, drain, peel and cure promptly. In the hot pack method the tomatoes are pre-cooked to drive some air out of the tissues, shrink the fruit so that it can be packed more economically, and shorten the time for processing in the canner.

Put them, quartered, in a kettle, pour boiling water over them and bring to a boil. Pack them hot into jars, using a funnel and ladle or cup. Ease a knife blade down into the jar to let out air bubbles. Fill the jar with solids and juice to 1/2 inch of the top. Add 1 teaspoon of salt to each quart.

Seal the jar. If a metal disc is being used with the rubber "made on," seal the jar completely at this time. If you are using a lightning type jar, close the top clamp, but leave the side clamp up. Or, if you have the screw type with jar rings, tighten the band and then screw it back 1/4 inch.

Put the jars into the canner with water at least 1 to 2 inches above the tops of the jars and keep the water boiling for 10 minutes. Count time from the moment the water begins to boil. This is known as the processing time and is necessary to kill bacteria that would cause food to spoil.

When processing time is up, lift the jar out with tongs, or dip out some of the hot water with a cup and then lift out the jars. Completely seal jars that were only partly sealed before processing.

CANNING GREENS

Pick over the greens, discarding any imperfect leaves and tough fibrous stems. Wash carefully in running water or through a number of waters, lifting the greens out each time. To pre-cook, cover the greens with water heated to simmering, not boiling, and cook in an uncovered vessel for 5 minutes, or until the greens are wilted. Pack hot into clean, hot containers, taking care not to make too solid a pack and to have sufficient hot liquid to cover the greens. Add 1 tsp. salt to each quart. Process immediately for 60 minutes at 15 pounds pressure for pint jars, or 85 minutes at 15 pounds pressure for quart jars.

Hub Officer's Ship Sunk, He's Proud of Fighting Crew

By VERN HAUGLAND

OKINAWA (AP) Lt. Com. Eugene N. Foss of 157 Middlesex road, Chestnut Hill, Mass., is pretty proud of the crew and fighting ability of his little minesweeper.

He has a right to be. The tiny warship shot down five Jap planes and absorbed the ramming of three others in the first of the battle today. When the battle was over, Foss was still in command of his little minesweeper.

"The first plane started and I shot it down," Foss said.

The second plane came in and I shot it down, too. The third plane came in and I shot it down, too. The fourth plane came in and I shot it down, too. The fifth plane came in and I shot it down, too.

was picked up within an hour. Rescued with Foss were Chief Yeoman Joseph P. Schrank, of Bridesburg, Pa., S-1c Harry Miley of Jersey City, N. J., and P-2c Willard Anderson.

In still another engagement was TFC Herneck Slocum of Waltham, Mass. He said:

"After a search plane hit our destroyer, the Japs came alongside and started trying to put our fire out with her hoses."

"A second plane hit us and knocked out our gun except No. 1 and we were still in local control and we still made things away without any effect."

When the third plane came in, I shot it down. The fourth plane came in and I shot it down, too. The fifth plane came in and I shot it down, too.

Lynn Riot Veterans Held

Three discharged overseas veterans were ordered held in $1000 each in Lynn District Court today after they appealed jail terms imposed by Judge Reeve for their part in a Central sq. riot which developed last night from an argument over their ejection from a cafe.

Clyde M. Gordon, Jr., 29, Boen Vista st., Swampscott, who took part in paratroop invasions of France and Holland, was sentenced to six months after being found guilty of a charge of assault on Patrolman William Bransfield.

On a similar charge, Richard E. Blanchard, 28, Franklin st., Lynn, veteran of 33 months' service in Africa, Sicily, Italy and southern France, was given a three-month term.

Eno Boverini, 28, Summer st., Lynn, marine veteran of Guadalcanal, was given a two-month term after being found guilty of a charge of attempting to rescue a prisoner.

Ten officers were rushed to Central sq. to quell the riot which started when Blanchard ejected Boverini from the restaurant, but was struck by Gordon when he arrested the latter after his refusal to leave the place.

Kin Lose Suit For $127,000

Fighting to break the will of Miss Hannah Elizabeth Snow, 89, Back Bay spinster who bequeathed her $127,000 estate to a companion for 30 years, two distant cousins today claimed in Suffolk Probate Court the beneficiary was a "pro-Nazi" and had exercised undue influence on Miss Snow.

Hild A. Safford of Wellesley and Aphrop R. Heath of South Merrimack, N. H., petitioned for jury trial of the contest. Their motion was denied by Judge John V. Mahoney.

Through their attorney, Elsie Field, they claimed Miss Marie Nahrung, 76, of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, dominated Miss Snow and practiced "fraud."

Field said 11 alternate beneficiaries named by Miss Snow in the event Miss Nahrung died first, were all residents of Germany and relatives of Miss Nahrung.

Atty. Calvin R. Bartlett, opposing the petition, said the contestants were "sixth cousins, on 3 remove" and established relation after six months of genealogical research.

By SGT. WALTER F. MACKIE
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly of the Boston Evening American Staff.

SOMEWHERE IN THE PHILIPPINES (Delayed)—Curious as to the number of Massachusetts Leathernecks serving with this First Marine Air Wing fighter group, this correspondent recently canvassed the camp and eight men answered "here."

They are: Cpl. Louis J. Picucci, 22, Leominster; former assistant football coach under Charles B. Broderick, at the local high school; Cpl. Joseph Travers, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Travers, 34 Travis st., Somerset; MTS Richard W. Jones, 23, son of Mrs. Margaret S. Jones, 28 Iowa st.; Cpl. Richard Tobin, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin, 325 Lincoln st., both of Worcester; Cpl. Colby S. Wetmore, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Wetmore, 20 Railroad st., Methuen.

PFC Photis Frangules, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Frangules, 11 Ashworth ter., Haverhill; MTS Joseph T. Lorkiewicz, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lorkiewicz, 10 Elm st., Webster; and PFC William R. Shepardson, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Shepardson, 57 Cambridge st., Fall River.

Picucci is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Picucci, 146 Ninth st., Leominster. He captained the Leominster High grid team in 1939 and attended Holy Cross College for a year before returning to his old high school to teach gridiron tactics.

Three brothers and two sisters are in the service.

Platoon Sgt. Angelo has been with the 5th Amphibious Corps in the Pacific for 32 months; Carmen is overseas with the Navy and Coast Guard SFC Anthony has just returned to the States from the Pacific theater. Lt. Raphael Picucci recently returned from Europe after three years as an Army nurse, and Theresa is training as a Navy nurse at Leominster Hospital.

Picucci and his six fellow Leathernecks are serving with a fighter group of the First Marine Air Wing. They work at various capacities in the different squadrons, keeping the core of the ground echelon moving and, in turn, keeping fighter planes in the air.

Navy Uncovers Its New Seahawk

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Long praised anonymously, a new Navy scout plane designed for use from battleship and cruiser catapults was uncovered today after reports of action in the Pacific.

It is the Curtis-Wright SC-1 Seahawk, a single-seater monoplane.

The first one-place scout ever used by the Navy, it was described officially as having double the speed of the plane it will replace. It flies higher and farther, is much more heavily armed, and can carry more bombs and depth charges than any plane in its class.

U. S. Coast Guard Reserve Posts Last TR Watch Today

With the shift of the war effort to the Pacific and the lifting of stringent safety precautions in the East and Gulf coast ports, temporary members of the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve of the First Naval District will be demobilized to an unassigned status at midnight tonight, Commodore W. N. Derby, district officer, announced today.

The last TR watch to be posted will be that of the dark patrol, which will muster at 2:30 this afternoon at Constitution Base. The termination of duty comes just a week and a day prior to the auxiliary's sixth anniversary.

Those going on inactive duty include members of the Volunteer Port Security Force, and temporary reservists of the auxiliary who, by assuming the task of protecting the waterfronts, have released thousands of regular Coast Guardsmen for combat duty at sea.

Com. Derby said the reservists would be asked to express a preference for continuing as TR's on an unassigned status, or for being demobilized. He hoped the choice would be for unassigned status until the end of the war with Japan.

"The deep appreciation of the Coast Guard for the valuable services performed by all of you," was expressed by Com. Derby in a directive to flotilla commanders.

The demobilization order, it was pointed out, does not apply to pilots, Great Lakes officers, Coast Guard police and civil service employees who are enrolled as temporary members of the C G Reserve.

News Services Win High Praise

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism said today he returned from his recent world tour "profoundly impressed" with the way news of the United States is being sent abroad by American Press Associations.

"We do not need governmental propaganda to create a fake front for us anywhere on this earth," Ackerman said. He and a group of American editors traveled 40,000 miles on their tour in the interest of news freedom.

"I am confident," he said, "the AP, UP, and INS can represent American ideas of truth, accuracy and freedom as effectively as I believe President Truman and his advisors will represent our nation when the Big Three meet again."

Multi-Billion Loan To Reds Assailed

By RAY RICHARDS

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 15—Following on the heels of the re-emergence of the Moscow-owned American Communist party and the Communist Internationale to seek the destruction of the present form of the American government, revelation today that the United States is considering a "multi-billion" dollar loan to Russia came as an angrier shock to anti-Communist members of Congress.

It was disclosed as a Harry Hopkins Marshal Stalin deal at Moscow.

It came soon after the world's Communist agents had made the coal proposal that the United States continue the wartime emergency aid of lend-lease to Russia despite the fact Russia is no longer at war.

Bertland W. Gearhart (R.) of California, member of the House Ways and Means Committee, characterized as "nothing short of astounding" the revelation by government officials that discussions of a loan of possibly six billion dollars are under way. Gearhart said:

"On the one hand we have China, a true friend who in effect fought our war with Japan for four years before we entered it, and has not yet received a loan that would establish her as a market for American goods for centuries, and a strong and faithful ally in time of stress.

"On the other hand we have Russia, which consent to change in form of permanent before Hitler started for Moscow, which pressed that activity only until we had helped wipe Germany, which then promptly renewed its former anti-American efforts and which now seems in a fair way to be added in all her plans to our money to the extent of a colossal six billion dollars.

"This is worse than an outrage on our part. It is stupid self-destruction."

Ex-Red Writer In Key OWI Post

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, June 15 — A former staff member of the Daily Clarion, official organ of the Communist party of Canada, is now a $3800-a-year feature writer in the local Office of War Information, it was learned today.

He is Allen Ted Herman, who under the name of "Ted Allen" covered the Loyalist side of the Spanish Civil War for the Clarion and did propaganda work here and abroad for the International Brigade, organized by the Communist International.

Herman's work at OWI is connected with the master radio-control section which prepares scripts for the various long-range divisions for short-wave broadcast to Europe and Asia.

Despite the fact that a government report submitted to OWI showed that Herman, under the name of Allen, had spoken before Young Communist League meetings and had written for Red newspapers and magazines here and in Canada, he was "cleared" and placed in the confidential position.

Hero Finds Cheers, Rationing Real Woe

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

FARMERSVILLE, Tex., June 15 (AP)—Lt. Audie Murphy, one of two most decorated men in the Army, today was continued wartime life in the United States is as rough as a

For a first prize hanging over his head, the 24-year-old Texan army man was the first to see today at his own home. The beautiful little town's prospect was almost as bright as the bobbing for apples on a boiling oil.

"I'm as shaky as Hirohito's dreams," he declared.

The big platform in the town square, June 15, 200 proud and happy citizens of this agricultural community met to get a better view of their hero, looked just like a soldier to Murphy.

All of this was the first Lt. Texas has seen since he spent the last 19 months in the jungle.

After the ceremony to Murphy.

1. The first was to go to the home of his mother, to purchase a larger plot in Dallas. He was told he would need a shoe stamp. Murphy thought a shoe stamp was something that stamped out shoes. He is still wearing the tight fit.

2. He was the first gasoline company to be called with sudden shock this morning, indeed, since the war. He was told to plan for the war's rationing.

3. He wanted to buy a small can of meat. He was told he would need red points. So he had to wait with a can of chicken. A tank. He spilled a gob of a 14 long on his trousers and every one of his 728 freckles paled as he stated "If it takes points for pants, I'm a gone goose."

4—Shortly after he arrived here yesterday from San Antonio, his sister, Mrs. Corinne Burns of Farmersville, stated, "Congressional Medal of Honor or no, I'm still the boss."

5—A boy seeking autographs handed him a pencil. Just as the Lieutenant started to sign, the boy asked,

"Hey, you aren't a member of the Arabian army, are you?"

"No," said Murphy.

"Then give me back my pencil," the boy declared. "I'm hunting an Arabian."

4-Yr. Food Shortages In Europe Predicted

LONDON (AP)—World shortages in sugar, fats and meat will continue for the next one to four years, and liberated Europe can expect only "very limited" help from outside nations, British food Minister J. J. Llewellyn told a 12-power food conference.

Von Ribbentrop

Field Marshal Montgomery, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and to Prime Minister "Winston Churchill."

He was described by his captors, Lt. J. B. Adam of Paisley, England, Sgt. Maj. R. C. Holloway of London and Sgt. J. S. Gibson of Lancashire, as "extremely passive and not a bit truculent."

British sleuths entered Ribbentrop's modest room at 9:30 a. m. yesterday. Forewarned with knowledge of Heinrich Himmler's suicide, their first aim was to prevent any similar attempt by the foreign minister.

But he apparently was in no mood for that great adventure.

As Hitler's foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop was believed to have been the man who influenced the German leader to risk the wrath of Britain and France in 1939.

Architect of the anti-comintern pact, Ribbentrop reached the peak of his power when the Nazi

Walsh Sees Prosperity Periled in New Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, June 15—Declaring that American workers can be protected only by continuing present tariff, Sen. Walsh today told his Senate colleagues reduced trade agreements with nations of the world will spell doom to our prosperity and many of our greatest industries.

The Bay State Senator spoke in opposition to an Administration bill which increases by 50 per cent the power to reduce existing tariff under the reciprocal trade agreement law.

Walsh said the present law had not been tested because world trade came almost to a standstill with the war, and that peace will find conditions vastly changed.

"England, our highest cost competitor, pays wages that are 50 per cent below those in America," Walsh said. "They ranged from 50 per cent down to perhaps 80 per cent in countries such as Czechoslovakia. Wages paid in America today are the highest in history, and we desire to maintain them."

"This is a time when our foreign competitors have full knowledge of our patents and efficiency methods and are capable of producing the same efficient tools and machinery that we are using."

Russia, England, Czechoslovakia and India have indicated they contemplate increasing their production both agriculturally and industrially.

"Frankly, I believe we ought to rehabilitate war-torn countries of Europe by large financial loans."

I am unable to accept the additional proposal that we now open our domestic markets to them in competition with our producers and workers.

"In the textile industry, New England once had 80 per cent of the spindles of the country. Today it has but 20 per cent. We lost this edge on the basis of a 10 to 25 per cent lower wage standard in the South. If New England could not compete with the South how can America hope to compete with the world that may be 50 to 75 per cent less than the wages paid here?"

Sen. Walsh also pictured our famed automobile industry also hurt under the proposal, with foreign importations clogging our roads.

2 WAVES Among 17 Dead in Plane

VICKSBURG, Miss., June 15 (AP)—Seventeen naval personnel, including two WAVES, were killed and a Navy lieutenant was seriously injured yesterday when a big transport plane exploded and crashed in a woods 16 miles north-east of here.

The lieutenant, only known survivor, still was unconscious in a Vicksburg hospital. Attendants said he suffered three leg fractures, broken left collarbone and severe burns.

Eyewitnesses said the big plane was flying at 5000 feet when it apparently hit a down draft. It fell three or four thousand feet, then dropped again.

Moments later the ship caught fire and exploded.

Congressmen Call For Vet Specialists

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—A plan to provide a "veterans' specialist" for each congressional district was proposed today by Reps. Chelf (D.) of Kentucky and Rains (D.) of Alabama, who reported Congress "is being swamped" with veterans' problems.

Chelf, a World War II veteran, said the legislation would authorize the Veterans' Administration to assign each House member an employee—preferably a disabled veteran—who would specialize in helping former members of the armed forces.

teins on a national average basis is the present cause of the present black market and an important contributing cause to earlier black markets in meats and poultry.

"The proponents of meat protein rationing just took their estimate of the amount of protein available for civilian use on a national basis and divided the population into it and expressed the answer in a uniform schedule of red points—so much per capita regardless of location or prior condition or prewar buying habits. "As a result, we found ourselves right at the start of rationing facing a situation where the average red point distribution indicated a supply of protein for the South above the normal per capita store sales of that area and far below prewar demands of the high-income industrial areas of the North."

Parsons traced for the committee the consequent development of a poultry "black market" as a result of the excessive demand for substitutes for the rationed meat when the Boston area lacked.

"The principal characteristic of the poultry black market in the Boston area," he continued, "is the almost 100 per cent loss of poultry business through the normal channels of trade."

"This is not due to diversion to local secret slaughterhouses. The entire traffic from the surplus production areas of northern New England seems to by-pass the Boston market and flow directly to New York."

"The largest poultry wholesalers in Boston, affiliated with nine slaughterhouses, were forced to close their all after the first of the year and showed me they had not had a sale on their books for one bird for three weeks during March. Their normal turnover ran from 450,000 to 500,000 pounds a week.

"New York, subject to the same shortage of red meat protein, created a vacuum for other proteins which sucked poultry from Connecticut farms, then Rhode Island and New Jersey and finally from Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine."

"Since highway interception of poultry in Massachusetts and a New Hampshire embargo, I understand that large Maine producers are selling at the farm and solid contacts are rolling to New York by rail."

Parsons told the committee that some trucks intercepted in Massachusetts carried loads of from 3000 to 18,000 pounds, which would mean from $900 to $1800 a load. He quoted rumored prices ranging from $3 to $3 a chicken in New York with the top figure being $1 a pound.

He said the increased demand for poultry had stripped thousands of farms of laying birds when ordinarily would not be marketed until the fall.

Another effect, he said, was the trend of using replacement birds for meat instead of for egg supplies and the consequent threat to the egg-laying business, ordinarily turning into millions of eggs yearly.

"As a result," he said, "I am sure that a black market has developed to present losses in the poultry business."

Parsons also pointed out that the shortage of eggs was a serious problem. He said that the shortage of eggs was a serious problem. He said that the shortage of eggs was a serious problem. He said that the shortage of eggs was a serious problem.

nor the OPA can close their eyes to the realistic problems of the present by arguing that an arbitrary average avoids a lot of trouble.

"On the contrary, the arbitrary average is responsible for the present trouble."

Parsons, in his well-documented analysis of the situation, summed up what many others have said in varying ways.

It means the bureaucrats fumbled the opening kickoff and have had their backs up against their figurative goalposts ever since.

How a bureaucratic brain-storm, evolved to solve a growing Boston meat shortage, served only to increase it to the proportions of a famine will be told in tomorrow's Boston American.

17 Die as Train Hits Derailed Car

MILTON, Pa., June 15 (INS)—Seventeen persons were killed today and more than 30 injured when a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train crashed into a derailed freight car near here.

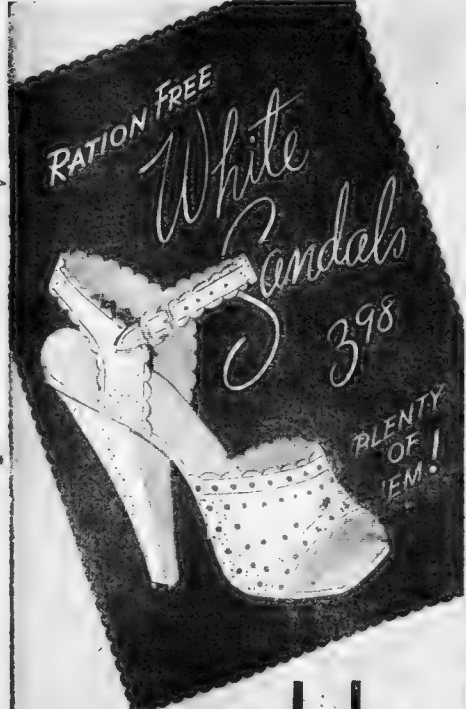

Railroad officials announced that 14 of the victims—yet unidentified—were dug out of the wreckage of two coaches, which after two dead were Engineer R. C. Stanton and Fireman M. J. Grant. At least a dozen persons, known to be seriously injured, were taken to hospitals in Lewisburg, Sunbury, Milton and Danville. Officials indicated that casualties would go higher.

Parsons declared that the only control of black markets was in attacking the source and that punitive measures against the few operators who get caught was not the way to check them.

"The unbalance in distribution of red ration points on a national basis may be mathematically perfect," he said, "but it is as impossible of practical application as the mathematically perfect average of 2½ children."

90 Pct. War Goods Cut--If Japs Quit

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The Army is ready in the event of a sudden Japanese surrender to cut back 90 per cent of its contracts within 48 hours, Director of Materiel Howard Bruce said today.

At a news conference, in which he reported Army procurement would be pared 32 per cent from two-front war levels during the last eight months of 1945, he said this probably would be the lineup for cut backs in the case of a sudden Japanese capitulation:

1—Production of munitions, such as big guns, will be halted immediately.

2—Contracts for food and subsistence items will be continued since the Army must be maintained for a time.

3—Contracts probably will be continued on new products, involving research and development.

The 32 per cent slash in procurement, he said, would amount to $6,100,000,000—from a projected two-front war level of $27,700,000,000 to $21,600,000,000.

The Sherman M4 tank, powers, he said, is the hardest hit item in the reduction, with production scheduled to be halted completely in two months.

Bruce explained the Army already had large quantities of Sherman tanks and future production would be merely an assembling of parts.

Light tanks production will be cut 76 per cent from March levels by December but the output of the Pershing medium tank will be stepped up.

Other items which will be cut sharply by December include Garand rifles, 95 per cent; jeeps, 76 per cent; heavy field artillery, 78 per cent; 105 MM howitzers, 84 per cent and light-heavy trucks, 75 per cent.

Production of so meitens, on the other hand, will be given a big boost, including incendiary bombs—the biggest weapon against Japan now—to be increased 172 per cent over March.

Other items to be increased include cotton shirts, 139 per cent; 60 MM mortar ammunition, 65 per cent; weasels, an amphibious vehicle, 42 per cent, and amphibious "ducks," 65 per cent.

Flying Dog Back From Nazi Prison

NEW YORK, June 15 (INS)—An air-borne dog which survived a crash landing, escaped from the Nazis with his master and eventually got back to safety with the help of the Dutch underground, arrived in New York today.

The dog, "Johnny," which dislikes women as well as men in any uniform other than that of the U. S. Army landed with Lt. Joseph R. Walker, 23, of Dutchess, Pa.

The officer, a B-24 pilot, explained "Johnny" was with him when they crashed in Holland Feb. 22 and during subsequent

Rochester Wins On Boston Stage

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Jack Benny's beloved stooge, Rochester, takes top honors in an excellent vaudeville bill currently at the RKO-Boston, with the charming Nan Wynne a close second.

Eddie Anderson, better known to millions of radio and movie fans as Rochester, was a fine actor long before there was a Benny program on the air. His stage experience stands him in good stead in a "personal appearance." Unlike many screen and radio personalities, who are often uncertain and amateurish on the stage, he is right at home behind the footlights.

Rochester's timing is superb. His comedy is clean and good; he sings "Accentuate the Positive" raucously and dances beautifully. Helping him out is a husky comedienne named Kitty Murray, to whom he gives a generous portion of his act.

Nan Wynne, recently in the cast of "Seven Lively Arts" in New York, has unusual stage presence as well as a lovely voice. She sings "Sentimental Journey" as well as it has ever been sung, and she wore a dream dress with a fascinating neckline. The audience liked Nan and the dress.

Johnny Richards and his band provided agreeable music, with vocalists Karen Rich and Pat Russo in song groups. Tommy Trent has a puppet production which adds variety and interest to a really entertaining stage show.

Robinson Choice to Win Over McDaniels Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

RAY (SUGAR) ROBINSON, world's uncrowned welterweight champion, is a heavy favorite to win from Jimmy McDaniels of Los Angeles in a 10-round bout at the New York Garden tonight. The speculative element is of the opinion that Robinson's blinding speed and fast punching will enable him to pile up a comfortable lead on points on the rugged, aggressive McDaniels.

There's considerable Boston and New England interest in the match due to the fact both boxers have appeared in the local Garden. Robinson is a flashier boxer than McDaniels, but the latter moves forward at every opportunity when he is in the ring.

McDaniels is a first class infighter, and Sugar Robinson will probably try to keep him at long range if possible. Mike Jacobs, who is staging the show with his 20th Century Sporting Club, has hopes that by the end of the summer he will be able to match the winner with Fred (Red) Cochrane, world's welterweight boss who recently received his discharge from the Navy.

Robinson recently passed an Army physical examination, but his call to active service has been delayed. It is possible that Robinson will have an opportunity to meet Cochrane before he returns to the Army.

Robinson was one of the star athletes who received a medical discharge from the Army. In most of his bouts since getting out of the service, Robinson has donated a percentage of his purses to funds for disabled veterans.

I do not believe that either Robinson or McDaniels would experience too much trouble winning from Cochrane. Robinson has the speed and skill to score a decisive win over the champion. Cochrane would do better with McDaniels as the latter is a rugged, two-fisted fighter who is easy to hit.

Jacobs intends to stage shows in the New York Garden during the summer months. He has signed Willie Joyce of Gary, Indiana to clash with Bobby Ruffin of Long Island City at the Garden on July 13.

Receive Service Honors

THIS HAS been a week of jubilation for Charley Margolian, circulation director of the Hearst Boston newspapers, as his oldest son, Capt. Leo Margolian, returned home from overseas after spending months in a German prison camp following service as an Army flier, while a younger son, Alvey, is a member of an Army unit overseas that has just received the meritorious unit service plaque for its fine work in France from June 15, 1944 until Aug. 15, 1944. The citation sets forth the bravery and fighting spirit of the unit, a battery, under the most trying conditions.

Capt. Margolian was one of the first Boston youngsters to go overseas. A graduate of Purdue University, where he took an engineering course, Capt. Margolian went in for aviation and was commissioned. He led the first group of American fliers into Egypt and distinguished himself in many aerial battles.

Capt. Margolian's plane was shot down in Africa. He was first held a prisoner by the Italians and was later moved to a prison camp in Germany.

Ferriss Will Rested For Nats Two Clash

By HUCKINNEGAN

WASHINGTON, June 5—Washington will get its first glimpse of Dave Ferriss this evening when the Sox freshman sensation hooks up with Mario Piretti of the Senators in the first game of twilight-night double-header.

There should be a goodly crowd in Griffith Stadium as a result for Clark Griffith has been asking for the duel. Because of Wednesday's rain in Philadelphia, Joe Joe Cronin was able to grant his father-in-law the request, and the duel has been well advertised.

Washington should see Ferriss at his best. He's had an extra day's rest since losing his first major league game in New York 3-2, and apparently he'll have no rainy weather to hamper his batting.

Great as he is, he'll do well to match Clem Hausmann's 1-0 effort in the final game with the A's. It was the third straight victory for the amiable Texan and by far his most satisfactory.

"My first major league shut-out," he beamed, nursing a thigh wound received when he caught Kelly's vicious line drive in the eighth and converted it into a double play. The A's touched him for only three hits and his control was so good they left only five men on bases. Three D. P.'s helped him, and he started two of them himself.

Culberson was the difference between victory and defeat because Old Bobo Newsom, suffering his seventh defeat against one victory, matched Hausmann pitch for pitch until that ninth.

The Sox had made only three hits off him. He had fanned Fox with the bases loaded in the sixth. Culberson doubled in the seventh with one out but Bobo mowed down Garbark and Hausmann on infield outs.

In the ninth, however, Johnson, robbed of a triple by Estalella earlier singled sharply to left. Fox sacrificed, but when Tobin looked at a third strike waft by it looked like extra innings. But Culberson tied into Newsom's fast one, drove it between Estalella and Peck for a triple and seemed to have the play beaten at home only to have Umpire Barry call him out. "Rosar never touched me," said Culberson.

It didn't matter. The victory did much to lift the Sox morale, lowered by losses in New York and Philadelphia due to shoddy relief pitching by Woods and Barrett. Pitching seemed to be their Achilles' heel. So Hausmann's effort was doubly sweet because it might stir the fires of ambition in the chests of O'Neill and Wilson.

Ryba will pitch tonight's second game. Ferriss is still being hounded by autograph seekers. . . . Washington expects Cecil Travis back before the season ends. He's in Europe. . . . Bench chatter has it that Greenberg's return will make Detroit a heavy favorite for the pennant. . . . Five games in three days in Washington. . . . Jim Bucher is sick. . . . That's why Steiner was back at second, injured ankle and all. . . . Cronin's ankle is kicking up, and he'll have it X-rayed again when he returns home.

RAMS SIGN WATERFIELD

CLEVELAND, June 15 (AP)—The Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football League announced today the signing of Bob Waterfield, former U. C. L. A. quarterback and husband of movie starlet Jane Russell. He is a former serviceman.

Tigers Welcome Hank Greenberg

DETROIT, June 15 (AP)—Hank Greenberg, the slugging Tiger outfielder of Detroit's pennant-winning clubs of 1934, 1935 and 1940, was back in civilian clothes today, discharged after four years in the Army, but Detroit club officials still had no direct word as to resumption of his baseball career.

Greenberg, a captain in the Army's special services section passed through the Army separation center at Ft. Dix, N. J., yesterday and left there immediately for New York to visit his mother. At Ft. Dix he revealed that he intends to rejoin the Tigers as soon as possible.

General Manager Jack Zeller of the Detroit club said he had not heard directly from Greenberg.

"We'll have no trouble over a contract," Zeller declared. "He's entitled to the same salary he received when he was inducted in 1941."

Although it never was officially announced, insiders believed at that time that Greenberg was receiving a salary of $55,000 a year, highest in baseball.

A league ruling requires that players returning from service be paid for at least 60 days at the same rate they received when inducted.

Pavot, Hoop Jr. Race In 55th Preakness

By LAWTON CARVER

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Baltimore, June 15 (INS)—Fred W. Hooper's Hoop Jr., winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Walter M. Jeffords' Pavot, last year's glamorous, unbeaten juvenile champion, were among nine three-year-olds entered today for tomorrow's 55th and richest running of the Preakness stakes.

More than 40,000 fans from Maryland's horse country and nearby points are expected to pack their way into the Pimlico track for this one day of racing, arranged especially to maintain the rich old stake's place among the early classics of the year.

With $50,000 added money riding on the outcome, the gross value of the stake will be $86,670, a new record for a high winner's end of $88,170.

Hoop Jr., took down $65,375 in the Kentucky Derby last week and was regarded by all hands here as the horse to beat for the big bundle in the Preakness.

He has been established the top favorite at current early odds of 8 to 5. Pavot is second choice and Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian, which handed Pavot his only defeat in the Withers Mile at Belmont, is third in the prices.

If the race develops as expected it will be a duel over a lightning-fast racing strip between Hoop Jr. and Pavot in the first meeting between these two standouts. Polynesian's great stretch run when he broke Pavot's string at eight straight will give him some backing, but few will concede him more than an outside chance.

At a mile and three-sixteenths, the race will be a sixteenth shorter than the Derby route and three-sixteenths longer than the Withers, and will be a good distance of ground for a test. All will carry 126 pounds.

The edge in riders must be conceded to Pavot, which will be piloted by cool and reliable George Woolf, known as the ice man and on this colt's back in every start.

Al Snider supplants Eddie Arcaro aboard Hoop Jr., due to the little Italian rider's commitment to his own employer, Greentree Stable, at New York tomorrow. Thus the race is deprived of a touch of glamor and color. This might have been a duel between the Hoop and Pavot and Arcaro and Woolf.

Cowboy Wayne Wright will be aboard Polynesian, while Mel Calvert will ride Darby Delpe, Johnny Gilbert will be on the Doge, Ken Seaworth will be on Alexis, Fred Remerscheid on Adonis and Sheel Clark on Bohannet. Sea Swallow's rider has not been selected.

The race is certain to attract

Wilson Still Likes Hoop

By DAVE WILSON

Your envoy is stringing along with Fred W. Hooper's Hoop Jr., to duplicate his impressive Kentucky Derby in tomorrow's renewal of the rich Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

Spangled Game, a New England favorite, is also fancied to triumph in the $30,000 added Dixie Stakes, secondary feature to the $50,000 added Preakness on the stake-studded card at the famous Maryland course.

Hoop Jr. will be minus the services of jockey Eddie Arcaro, but any rider of mediocre ability should be able to pilot him to victory, judging by the easy time he had in winning the Derby.

The competition, if any, may be furnished by Walter M. Jefford's Pavot, unbeaten juvenile of last season. Pavot was beaten in the Withers Mile, his only start of the current season, but he has since trained in a manner to warrant belief that he will run back to his top form.

Both Hoop Jr. and Pavot are front runners.

Guy Medwick Boosts Braves Flag Chances

By FRED HOEY

The Braves are headed for the sunshine. Further proof of this fact was furnished this morning when Manager Bob Coleman announced that catcher Clyde Klutzz of the Braves had been traded to the New York Giants for veteran outfielder Joe Medwick and southpaw pitcher Ewald Pyle.

Ordinarily a trade of this nature, regardless of Medwick's former hitting prowess, would cause no eye-brow lifting. But there was a purpose behind it all. And it may have a vital effect on the future activities of the Braves. In fact it might all combine to make Coleman's boys flag contenders.

Joe Medwick

Coleman has experimented time and again in his effort to get a cleanup hitter in that No. 4 spot in the batting order. He has tried every Brave player that might show cleanup habits with the willow. All to no avail. The guy was not present in the Braves' camp.

Medwick has been around a long time. Some say he's done. But that stocky Jerseyite still packs a terrific wallop in that bat of his. Nobody expects Joe to hit a robust 300, or anything of that sort, but they do believe he still retains enough power to knock that apple out of some of those short National League orchards. And that's what the Braves need.

They say, too, that Medwick is hard to handle. We never yet saw a ball player that couldn't be handled if directed properly. And Bob Coleman of the Braves is the Foxey Grandpa in this case.

This Ewald Pyle, southpaw pitcher figuring in the deal with Medwick is no Waddell or even Hubbell but he's a good guy to have around. Last season he won seven games and lost 10 for Mel Ott of the Giants.

The grand gesture of General Manager John Quinn in getting out and gathering strength for the Braves is bound to have a resounding effect in all New England balldom.

This Man J. Quinn knows his baseball. He doesn't fool around with duds. He works for three generous guys, Joe Perini, Guido Maney and Guido Rugo, the Braves' owners, and three swell guys that.

It might sound a bit fantastic to some conservative fans but one has only to look over that National League makeup as constituted at this hour and he might be convinced that the Braves have an excellent chance to win the pennant.

The Medwick-Pyle-Klutzz deal does not end Braves' trading activities. Tonight they reach the deadline in player limit. With the acquisition of Medwick and Pyle they are carrying 29 players. The limit is 25 after today.

Well, three players have to be cut loose. It appears as though Pitcher Hal Schacher is headed for the Hartford farm. Pitcher Charley Cozart to Indianapolis and old Lou Fette will draw his free release, having failed to come up to expectations.

But John Quinn and Coleman are not through with their rebuilding plans. Although no official word has come from the Braves it begins to look as though Joe Mack is on his way down river, or maybe he'll be traded to the Yankees. The Braves have their collective eyes on "Heinz" Becker, first baseman of the Chicago Cubs.

So it's refreshing to see the Braves step out and gather added strength.

It's a tribute to General Manager John Quinn and his bankroll associates Joe Perini, Joe Maney and Guido Rugo not to overlook Bob Coleman.

Today Manager Coleman sends his Braves after those so-called "Ferocious Gentlemen" from Brooklyn in a twin bill. The first game starts at 1:30. Ferocious Gentlemen, Hey? We remember when we referred to those guys as "Dem Bums." Never saw a bum ferocious.

CRACKS GRABS PURSE

H. E. Jacoby's Cracks, fast son of Crack Brigade, won all by himself in the Hyde Park Purse, feature of the Lincoln Fields program yesterday at Hawthorne. The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:14 1-5 and paid $72.00.

Final School Title Playoff up to ODT

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There was still a slim possibility that the winner of today's clash between Milton and Medford High Schools at Fenway Park would have a further shot at the State Championship some time next week—the entire matter resting with the Office of Defense Transportation which had previously ruled against travel for sports tournaments.

The previously cancelled Western play-off is being held in Holyoke and the winner of that series may get permission to travel for a grand finale at Fenway.

Today's wind-up of the Eastern Mass. championship, sponsored by the Schoolboy Writers' Ass'n, promised to be one of the best contests of the entire series. Both teams are particularly strong in their respective types of play.

Milton plays close to the belt. Medford, like the Yankees, is a slugging, wide open outfit with pitching ability to go along with its power.

Milton still has to play a tourney game that will live up to its reputation. It's true that the team has been great in whipping Boston English and Walpole but not up to the standard that Coach Bob Osborne expected. As a matter of fact, Milton hasn't scored an earned run in chalking up 3-1 and 1-0 triumphs. And it's going to take some hitting to beat Medford's Joe DiBiase.

DiBiase has had a full week's rest since the Rindge Tech contest in which he won just about as he pleased.

Milton's mound choice, Everett Goodwin, will be coming right back after only two days of leisure. But it may be better this way. Goodwin had plenty of reason to be nervous in his first start in the big league ball park. In his second start, he was weakened by sickness so that he wasn't at his best. He had it in the jinxes in both starts and he may hit his peak with this added work.

Oddly enough, both teams will actually be alumni outfits. Medford held its graduation full three weeks ago so that the entire starting line-up—Tink Templeton, c; DiBiase, p; Ed Coppinger, 1b; Al Thomann, 2b; Art D'Ernico, ss; Gene King, 3b; John Hayes, cf; Pete Gerardi, lf, and John Murray, rf—have quite high school classes.

Milton held its graduation exercises last night.

It'll be Capt. Danny Sullivan of St. Sebastian's baseball team next spring. . . Sullivan, son of the former coach at Deon Academy, played second base on Coach Vin Murray's outfit that chalked up 10 straight victories this season. . . nine of the triumphs were scored by pitcher Bobby McNabb, 15-year-old right-hander.

McNabb averaged seventeen strike-outs per game and issued less than two bases on balls per tilt.

Steve Filipowicz Sent to Columbus

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Outfielder Steve Filipowicz, former Fordham U. football star, was optioned by the New York Giants today to Columbus of the American Ass'n on 24-hour recall.
